Analysis

Bill Summary: The bill alters the definition of fallen public safety officer to include a disabled public safety officer who dies regardless of the cause of death. Local governments, however, are authorized to limit eligibility for the property tax credit to the existing criteria established under current law. The bill also allows, under specified circumstances, the amount of the credit for a newly purchased dwelling owned by a disabled public safety-judicial officer or the surviving spouse or cohabitant to be in the same proportion as the property tax credit initially granted for a previous dwelling. In addition, the bill removes the requirement that the dwelling must have been acquired within a certain number of years.

Current Law: Local governments are authorized to grant a property tax credit for a dwelling owned by (1) a disabled public safety or judicial officer; (2) a surviving spouse of a fallen public safety or judicial officer; or (3) a cohabitant, provided specified conditions are met. Public safety officer includes a correctional officer, a law enforcement officer, or a member of a fire, rescue, or emergency medical service.

Local Fiscal Effect: Local property tax revenues may decrease beginning in fiscal 2027 to the extent that local jurisdictions grant the property tax credit, and the changes to existing eligibility requirements result in additional individuals becoming eligible for the property tax credit. The amount of the decrease depends on the number of eligible taxpayers and the assessed value of each residential property that is eligible for the property tax credit, neither of which can be reliably estimated at this time.

At present, Baltimore City and the following 14 counties have authorized the property tax credit – Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Calvert, Carroll, Cecil, Charles, Frederick, Harford, Howard, Montgomery, Prince George’s, Queen Anne’s, St. Mary’s, and Wicomico.

Montgomery County granted property tax credits to six recipients in fiscal 2024 and 2025 in the amounts of $28,402 and $30,477, respectively.
